

RACHEL HARRISON: CONSIDER THE LOBSTER

June 27, 2009 - December 20, 2009
CCS Bard Galleries

The first major survey of New York-based artist Rachel Harrison. Titled Consider the Lobster, after an essay by the late David Foster Wallace, the survey encompasses over ten years of large-scale installations by Harrison, all of which have been reconfigured for the CCS Bard galleries. In addition to the survey, we have also invited six artists, including Nayland Blake, Tom Burr, Harry Dodge, Alix Lambert, Allen Ruppersberg, and Andrea Zittel, to collaborate with her to re-install works from the Marieluise Hessel Collection. Consider the Lobster will be on view at the Whitechapel Gallery in London from April 27 through June 20, 2010.
